Shaping the cities of the future

Challenges faced by urban planners of the future include designing cities as urban conurbations. This and further issues such as sustainability and smart design will be topics at the event. Designer Poonam Choudhry will present an installation posing a multitude of questions on such conurbations. Architect Prof Aniket Bhagwat, from Prabhakar B. Bhagwat Landscape Architects, from such urban conurbations in India will show examples of urban planning, as will the architect Kai Bierich from Wulf Architekten in Stuttgart. A get-together and opportunity for further talks and networking will round off the evening.
